DETAILED ACTION

This action is in response to the applicant's communications, translation of foreign priority document, filed 4/27/2006.

This action is in response to the applicant's communication filed on 11/9/2005..

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7, 32, 35-43, 52-53, 55, 57, 58, 62-63, 68, 71 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over by Ikuko et al (6,255,775) in combination with Fukuda (US 6,541,130).

Ikuko et al discloses a method of forming a color emissive device including, on a substrate, a self-emissive element having a first electrode, an emissive material layer for each color and a second electrode, for each plurality of pixels and said method comprising the steps of :

disposing between the substrate and layer material source, a mask including an opening corresponding to one or more of the plurality region where said layer is formed;

causing a material from the layer material source to attach to a first region of the substrate through the opening, while relative positions of the substrate, the mask, the material source are set to a final positional relationship;

causing relative movement between the mask, material source and the substrate the substrate to change relative positions of the substrate, the mask and the source material; from the first positional relationship to the second positional relationship;

causing the material to attach to a second region of the substrate through the opening, while relative positions of the substrate, the mask, and the source material are set to second positional relationship (see fig. 9 a-9d and related description ant).

Ikuko et al further discloses linearly extending source "11, 12, 13" plurality of material sources, elongated in a direction perpendicular to a direction of the relative movement between the mask, material source and the substrate. Ikuko et al teaches electroluminescent materials deposited on the substrate "5,6,7" (see fig. 3 and related description). With respect to claims 11, 33, Ikuko et al further teach emissive material layer for each color for each plurality of pixels.

Ikuko et al teaches a mask "9" having one or more holes and having smaller are than the substrate "1 (see fig.1 or fig. 5 a-5c).

Ikukuo et al do not teach the same material in first positional relationship and second positional relationship by changing the elative positions of the material source and mask and substrate.

Fukuda teaches sliding the mask and depositing an organic material by changing the mask laterally (see Fig. 10- Fig. 12 and related description). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form organic material by changing the position of the mask laterally because Fukuda teaches on organic material on individual devices sequentially by laterally changing the mask to form display.

Claims 19-24, 30,34,,44-50, 51, 54,56,59,60, 61,64,65,66, 67,69 and 70-71 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 7, 32, 35-43,51-53,55,57,58,62-63, 68 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

In IDS filed on 11/2004 Korean application no. 10-2001-0059939 is cited.
